HOUSE HISTORY - summary

We (the Lloyd family) bought Bryn Berllan March 1999 as a rundown old farmhouse and adjoining barn, with the intention of renovating it and turning it into a lovely home for our young family. Little did we realise that we would be living in a 16th century box framed farmhouse! There was little evidence of the old house left; the post and panelled walls in the kitchen and bedroom had been covered up and the roof trusses had been hidden by a ceiling.

During its history, it appears to have always belonged to an estate, firstly the Hughes's of Gwerclas who were descendants of Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion and Dinmael and who were themselves one of the Barons of Edeirnion. Gwerclas estate was sold to Rhug in 1824 when Richard Hughes died. From all the research that I have done, Bryn Berllan appears to have been tenanted since at least 1750 until 1972 when it was sold.

When Bryn Berllan belonged to Gwerclas and Rhug it had between 30-70 acres but when Rhug sold the house and buildings, it kept the land with the estate.

My earliest childhood memory of Bryn Berllan was as a dairy farm selling bottled milk around Cynwyd.

I thoroughly enjoyed researching the history of our home even though at times I found it very frustrating that I couldn't find any evidence regarding how Bryn Berllan had come to belong to the Gwerclas estate. Ironically, the only evidence that I found that it had ever belonged to the estate was in their sale catalogue when they sold it!
